INTERIM COMMISSION ON PHYTOSANITARY MEASURES

Sixth Session

Rome, 29 March – 2 April 2004

Role and Functions of the Informal Working Group on Strategic Planning and Technical Assistance

Agenda Item 8.10 of the Provisional Agenda

1. Since its establishment at ICPM-2 in 1999 the Informal Working Group on Strategic Planning and Technical Assistance (SPTA) has been operating as an informal open-ended working group. Established as a working group to develop a strategic plan and to develop the PCE, its role and functions have changed considerably over the years (see Annex I). Although some components of the work of the SPTA have been ongoing (strategic plan, work programme, budget review, standard setting priorities) most of the activities of the SPTA have been of an ad hoc nature assigned by the ICPM or the ICPM Bureau. The ICPM Bureau regards the SPTA as the most important group assisting it in administrative tasks. The Bureau decided that a discussion on the role, structure and functions of the SPTA should be held in order to analyse the current situation and investigate possible improvements to the present system.
2. The SPTA discussed its long term role and composition at its meeting in October 2003. The SPTA recalled the work done by this group over the years, and in particular the development of the strategic and business plans. It recognized the impact that these plans had in relation to an increased level of FAO funding.
3. The SPTA discussed a number of issues identified by the ICPM and Bureau in relation to the operation of the SPTA.
4. These included:
  1. The SPTA does not always have enough time to address technical issues on technical assistance.
  2. Does not have formal terms of reference.
  3. Its structure is unbalanced, with an insufficient representation from developing countries.
  4. Continuity of membership is a problem particularly for developing country attendees.
5. The SPTA discussed a range of possible options to address these issues including separating administrative matters from technical assistance matters and extending the duration of SPTA meetings, so that technical assistance matters could be addressed adequately.

For reasons of economy, this document is produced in a limited number of copies. Delegates and observers are kindly requested to bring it to the meetings and to refrain from asking for additional copies, unless strictly indispensable.
Most FAO meeting documents are available on Internet at www.fao.org

6. The SPTA had mixed views on the establishment of formal separate (subsidiary) bodies on strategic planning and on technical assistance. While not dismissing this idea completely there were uncertainties on costing, mode of operation, determining membership etc. The SPTA did not agree to recommend formalization of the administrative structures of the ICPM in advance of the coming into force of the revised text of the IPPC.

7. The SPTA:

1. Recognized the very important role the SPTA has played and its contribution to increasing the profile of and the funding for the IPPC.
2. Recognized that the linkage between Strategic Planning and Technical Assistance is important.
3. Recognized that the open-ended nature of the working group has allowed the input of those particularly interested in this subject and has allowed flexibility.
4. Noted that there are some shortcomings in the current operation of the SPTA.
5. Recommended that a sound structure be developed in the future when the revised text of the IPPC comes into force.
6. Recommended, as an interim measure, that the Secretariat seeks to facilitate the participation of two representatives from developing countries per FAO Region at the next SPTA..
7. Noted that an Expert Working Group is to be convened to consider technical assistance.
8. Recommended that the SPTA should maintain overall administrative and financial oversight of technical assistance matters.

8. The ICPM is invited to:

1. Consider and comment on the role and structure of SPTA.
2. Adopt the recommendations made by the SPTA on its long term role and composition.
